The following patriotic appeal for the national loan has just been issued by Secretary Chase to the citizens of the United Your national government, compelled by a guilty conspiracy culminating in cause-less insurrection, is engaged in a war for security and liberty, for the supremacy of the law, for the defence of the Union, and for the maintenance of popular institu-

For the means to defray the necessary expenses of the war your Congress has directed that an appeal be made to you, by opening a subscription to a national loan of one hundred and fifty millions of dol-

Already the enlightened and patriotic capitalists of the great cities of new York, Philadelphia and Boston, have manifested their clear sense, both of day and intertheir clear sense, both of duty and interest, by a subscription of $50,000,000 —
Congress, under which this subscription was received, wisely provides, however, that the advantages as well as the patriotic satisfaction of a priticipation in this loan, shall be offered not to the capitalists of the great cities only but to the people of the whole causity.

est not limble to State taxation, but con-stituting for subscribers a revenue not only certain in receipt, but greater in amount than can be expected from any ordinary in-vestment. And in order to afford all citi-zens equal opportunities of participation representative authority when the constitution was agreed upon. As a consequence, that subscriptions be received for sams as small as $50, as well as for larger amounts, and that should the subscriptions exceed the whole sum desired, the smaller be preferred in its distribution. Each subscriber, on payment of his subscription, will be entitled to receive treasury notes, equal in amount, in such denominations as he may prefer, whether of $50, $100, $500, $100 or $5000. The interest at 73-10 per annum will be on the notes of $50 one cent, on $1000 two cents, on $5000 ten cents, on $1000 twenty cents, on $5000 one dollar for each day.

It will be seen at a glance that not only survive officially the ordinary four of a Northern supreme magistrate.

their full share in the benefit of the common government, and tenew their alle-giance to the Union, which in an evil hour they have been tempted to throw off. Will they not reflect that the war into

Will they not reflect that the war into which the government has been constrained, is not a war for their subjugation, but a war for mational existence, and that an auspicious result to the Union will benefit as largely the States in insurrection as the States which have remained loyal.

However this may, be, the duty af the national government, as the constitutionally constituted agent of the people, admits in no question. The war made necessary by the insurrection, and reluctantly accepted by the government, must be prosecuted with all possible vigor until the restoration of the just authority of the Union shall insure permanent peace. The same good Providence which conducted dangers which beset the formation of the Union, has graciously strengthened our union, has graciously strengthened our hands for the work of its preservation.

The crops of the year are ample, the granaries and barns are everywhere full. The capitalists of the country come cheerfully forward to sustain the credit of the government. Already, and even in advance of this average of this average of this average of this average.

vance of this appeal, men of all occupa-tions seek to share the bonors and advan-tages of the loan. Never, except because of the temporary depression caused by the rebellion and the derangement of business occasioned by it, were the people of the United States in a better conditon to sus-tain a great contest than now.

Under these favoring circumstances, and for these grand objects, I shall, in pursuance of the act of Congress, cause books of subscription to be opened as speedily in the several cities and principal towns of the United States, in order that all citizens who desire to subscribe to the loan may have the opportunity of doing so.—
Meanwhile, those who prefer that course can remit any sum which they may wish to invest in the loan to the treasury of the United States at Washington, or to either of the Assistant Treasurers at Boston, New York, Philadelphia or St. Louis, re to the Depository at Cincinnati where or to the Depository at Cincinnati, where certificates will entitle the holders to treasury notes on the terms already stated. The patriotism of the people, it is not to be doubted, will promptly respond to the liberal wisdom of their representatives.

[Signed] S. P. CHASE,

Secretary of the Treasury.

of the great cities only but to the people of the whole country.

In order to secure a substantial reward for their public spirit to those whose pariotism prompts them in this hour of trial to place their means at the disposal of government, Congress has directed that an interest of 73-10 per centum be paid on the several amounts subscribed, an interest of Welland of State taxation, but constitute the several amounts subscribed, an interest of Welland of State taxation, but constitute the several amounts subscribed, an interest of Welland of State taxation, but constitute the several amounts subscribed, an interest of the war.

It will be seen at a glance that not only is the whole property of the country pledged for the interest and final reimbursement of the loan, but that an adequate and specific proportion of the annual production is set apart by taxation for the redemption of this pledge. Prompt payment beyond a contingency is thas insured.

Nor can this taxation be thought great when compared with the magnitude of the objects of the contest, or with the amount of property and production. The objects are Union. Permanent peace and security at home and respect abroad are imperilied by this unprovoked rebellion.

The intelligence of the people comprehend at once their magnitude. They rise above party. They belong to no administration of the contest, or with the democration of the contest, or with the death is election, the democrates North and South presented one candidate, it is probable that the black republicans as you call them, would have been found as minus hab enter the black republicans as you call them, would have been found as minus hab enter the black republicans in the North. I am enclined to think that he was indifferently one and indicate, and, in order to defeat his elect by this unprovoked rebellion.

The intelligence of the people comprehend at once their magaitude. They rise above party. They belong to no administration. They concern the whole country during all time, under every administration, and in every relation, foreign or domestic. And the means for the attainment of these greatobjects can be readily supplied from the property productions of the country.—

The real and personal values in the United States reach the vast aggregate of $16-000.000,000 and in the States now loyal to the Union this aggregate is $11,000,000,000.

The yearly surplus carnings of the loyal people are estimated by intelligent persons ronversant with such investigations, at more than 400,000,000, while the well considered judgment of military men of the highest rank and repute, warrants the confident expectation that if the war is prosecuted with energy, courage and skill, it was he broaght to a termination before the highest rank and repute, warrants the confident expectation that if the war is prosecated with energy, courage and skill, it may be broaght to a termination before the close of the next spring, in which event the cost, beyond the revenue, will hardly exceed the amount of the $250,000,000 loan authorized by Congress; and with due economy in all the branches of the public service, not more than the total expenditures of Great Britain of France in years of peace.

And it is not unreasonable to hope that the auspicious result of peace may be bastened by the reflection of the citizens of the States in insurrection—that they will review their action, weigh their own welfare, consider the disposition of the people of the whole country to recognize all their constitutional rights and to allow them

ple. in all their legitimate rights. But all this is to be judged of by others, and the opinion of any individual is of the smallest account. If a word of mine con'd have the slightest influence I would suggest that while the war is going on there much he while the war is going on, there might be a convention of the seceded States, held within their own borders. It might be one representative appointed from each of these States, by the Governor, to meet and examine the whole case as it now stands arrange and draw up a report of their grievances—or what they consider such— nud report to their respective Governors the result of their deliberations, and the conclusions at which they shall have ar-

the States that have not secoded, and similar reports be made to their respective Governors. This would be only a preparatory measure for something more important. If a better feeling or understanding could be arrived at, a future Convention of all the States by their representatives would have something to act upon. The difficulties might be investigated and provided for; the Constitution might be revised by general consent, and if the platform—sufficiently ample for 3,000,000 at form—sumctently ampie for 3,000,000 at the period when the Constitution was formed—is found to be neither of breadth nor of strength enough to support a popu-lation of 30,000,000, wise and patriotic anen might suggest according to the rules prescribed in the original document, the improvements which the actual condition of the country would seem to require. The of the country would seem to require. The Constitution itself, in its letter and spirit, is no doubt the same as it was when first framed; but nearly everything around has been undergoing a change for nearly eighty sincere, if not an influential, advocate.— But to expect that a peace will spring up by the advodacy of individuals in the midst of the din and clash of arms, amidst the mutually alienated feelings of the peo-ple, and the widening of the breach that has now separated them, would be, in my opinion, hoping against hope.
